Ecclesiastical Declarations – Family, Marriage, and Guardianship

1. Declaration of Ecclesiastical Family Authority

The structure and sanctity of my family are governed solely under divine law and ecclesiastical trust authority.

No external agency, institution, or civil jurisdiction may assert authority over members of my household or spiritual kin without lawful and written consent.

The trust assumes all responsibility for care, protection, and lawful governance of family affairs.

2. Writ of Ecclesiastical Marriage and Union

Marriage and union under this trust are recognized as sacred covenants under divine jurisdiction.

No license, registration, or governmental recognition is required to establish this bond.

All unions are sealed through ecclesiastical authority, with mutual consent and spiritual witness.

3. Affidavit of Parental and Guardianship Authority

I, as trustee and living soul, retain exclusive parental rights and guardianship over any children or dependents under this trust.

No agency or court may remove or intervene in their care without committing trespass under divine law.

This authority is foundational, sacred, and non-transferable to any state, entity, or corporate institution.

4. Rebuttal of State Custodianship and Legal Presumptions

The trust rebukes any presumption of state ownership or custodial claim over children, family, or heirs.

No social contract, birth registration, or legal assumption shall be recognized as lawful claim of jurisdiction.

Only ecclesiastical authority determines guardianship, education, and familial decision-making.

Sealed by authority of the Ecclesiastical Private Trust.
